

THE HONOURABLE WILLIAM A. STEVENSON

William Stevenson graduated from the University of Alberta Faculty of Law in 1957 with honors of the highest degree, and with the Horace Harvey Gold Medal in Law. He articulated to and practised with William Morrow at Morrow, Morrow & Reynolds (now RRMF LLP) until his appointment to the District Court of Alberta in 1975. With William Morrow, he was counsel on the last case from Canada to be appealed to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. He was one of the authors of the 1968 Alberta Rules of Court.

He was a founding member of the Alberta Law Review and continued for years to be a proud supporter of that publication. He was also the first Chairman of the Legal Education Society of Alberta. He was a full-time member of the Faculty of Law at the University of Alberta for a time.

In 1975, he was appointed to the District Court of Alberta. In 1979, he became a Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench. He was elevated to the Courts of Appeal of Alberta and the Northwest Territories in 1980 and was appointed to the Supreme Court of Canada in 1990. While on the Bench, he helped found the National Judicial Institute and held a distinguished honorary membership on its Board of Governors. He became an Officer of the Order of Canada in 1997 and received an Honourary LL.D. from the University of Alberta in 1992.

THE HONOURABLE JEAN E. CÔTÉ

Jean Côté is a third-generation Edmontonian who has been studying and writing about the law for 60 years.

From McGill University, the University of Alberta, and Oxford University, he got an Honors B.A., an LL.B., a B.C.L. (a graduate law degree), and an Honorary LL.D.

He is the author or lead author of 15 books. He has written many articles, still writes blogs, and edits this standard annual work, Stevenson and Côté's Civil Procedure Handbook.

Emphasizing training, Côté has taught innumerable seminars and courses, at the Faculty of Law of the University of Alberta, the Bar Admission course, the Legal Education Society of Alberta, the Canadian Bar Association, the Canadian Institute for the Administration of Justice, and the National Judicial Institute. He has been a guest lecturer at the Law Societies of British Columbia and Saskatchewan, and for the Atlantic Courts of Appeal of Canada, and the British Columbia Court of Appeal. The Canadian Judicial Council and national legal liability insurers keep some of his texts in print.

From 1987 to 2015, he was a Justice of the Courts of Appeal of Alberta, the Northwest Territories, and then Nunavut. That involved writing a very large number of judgments, serving as the chair of the Rules of Court Committee, and sometimes sitting on the Provincial Judicial Council.
